Synopsis:

In its third year the Sustainable Mountain Development Summit (SMDS) is being held at Kohima, Nagaland. SMDS is a platform of the Indian Mountain Initiative (IMI) for stakeholders from Indian Himalayan Region to come together to share experiences, discuss issues of development priority in context of climate change, as well as, to find ways to influence national and state policies. Further details on the summit are available here.

SMDS 2013 is supported by the Swiss Agency for Development and Cooperation (SDC) through its Indian Himalayas Climate Adaptation Programme (IHCAP).
